What you do for a job and what it involves?	My role is Deputy Headteacher for Early Years and KS1. I have worked at Marjory Kinnon School since 2013. The school is one of the UK's largest special educational needs (SEN) schools, supporting over 300 students aged 4-16. With a primary focus on children with autism, the school's mission is to Nurture, Challenge, and Inspire - helping students reach their full potential through learning, play, and meaningful experiences. I oversee therapies (Speech and Language, Occupational Therapy and Dance Therapy), ASC communication and parental engagement strategies in our school.
Governance Experience	Before being elected to the Staff Governor role, I attended and presented at several governance committees and was a regular attendee at the Child, Family & Community Committee.
Hobbies & Interests?	Running is my passion and my therapy. I enjoy staying active through running and playing football, which keep me energised and motivated.
Links to the school or the area?	I am employed by Marjory Kinnon School (in the London Borough of Hounslow).
Why did you become a Governor?	Throughout a 16-year career working with children and young adults with additional needs, (particularly those with autism) – my focus has been on contributing to the future of our pupils and the school community. My practice and leadership are informed by an in-depth understanding of autism and the evolving communication needs of our changing cohort. Prioritising the wellbeing of our school community through running inspired me to organise fundraising running events to support wider school initiatives that benefit pupil development.
